What you can prepare

A project brief, a tracker of outstanding decisions, an institution-by-institution enquiry map and a document index for professional review.

First step

Describe the business model and separate confirmed facts, open decisions and assumptions.

Fictional worked example

Fictional example: Diego and Lin want to offer design services to Chilean and overseas customers. They have not selected a structure or confirmed where they will operate. The pack creates a project brief, labels each participant's role as proposed and prepares questions about representation, RUT, inicio de actividades and applicable obligations. Official costs remain blank. The example does not specify which company they should form or claim they can do so using particular documents.

Scope

This pack does not form companies, obtain a RUT, register the start of business activities, select a tax regime or confirm permits. It does not determine your ability to represent an entity or carry out an activity in Chile. Structure, representation, taxation and authorizations must be verified for the specific project. The pack price excludes official fees and third-party services.
