What you can prepare

A file index, a document tracker with evidence and outstanding items, a timeline and a draft enquiry about the route to be checked with the authority.

First step

Describe your purpose and current circumstances in five lines. Mark the proposed procedure as awaiting verification if it has not been confirmed.

Fictional worked example

Fictional example: Elena, a Peruvian national, is outside Chile and wants to ask how to organize records for a possible residence application. She has an identity document and a certificate she has not checked for this purpose. The pack records D01 and D02 as available, the procedure as to be verified and any translation or formalization as to be verified. Draft: 'I would like to know which procedure applies to my circumstances and where to find its official requirements. How can I check which documents are needed and whether my current location affects the submission channel?' The example does not conclude that Elena qualifies for a category or may work in Chile.

Scope

This pack organizes information. It does not determine your immigration category, eligibility, right to work, applicable requirements or application outcome. Requirements, costs and processing times must be checked against official sources for your specific case. English drafts are supporting material, not official translations.
